Commissioners to Ask Congress to Take Action.

AWAIT TEST CASE VERDICT

Mr. Macfarland Gives Out Statement Concerning Gambling at Benning, Believes Whatever Amendment to Present Law Is Needed Shall Be Made—Wants Betting "Wiped Out."

Commissioner Macfarland said yesterday that he was only waiting for the decision of the Court of Appeals, in the test case which it is now considering, as to being at Benning race track, before asking the Commission to recommend to Congress whatever legislation is necessary to make the anti-gambling laws absolutely effective at Benning race track.

"Until the Court of Appeals makes its decision," he said, "it cannot be determined what amendment of the law may be necessary, but whatever amendment is necessary, should, of course, be made."

"This is what Gov. Hughes has recommended in New York and is what the Commissioners will doubtless agree to recommend here. For every reason gambling should be stopped, and of the different forms of gambling, that which is most expensive to the community, both in money and in ruined lives, is the race-track gambling."

"The business men of Washington stopped the Jackson City gambling, because they felt strongly the effect of the temptation to which it subjected business men and their employees, and its demoralizing influence upon so many men."

Has Been Active Before. "As a member of the Board of Trade, I took part in that effort, and I have never ceased since to advocate the absolute abolition of race track and other gambling in and near the District of Columbia."

"My last public utterance upon that subject was in a newspaper interview on July 20, 1907, when I was quoted as saying that the District government would do everything in its power, as in the past, to break up all gambling in the District of Columbia, and that I was anxious to see the betting at Benning entirely wiped out."

Not Under Commissioners. "Not having immediate supervision of the police department, I have not had the initiative in directing its operations, but I am informed that the major and superintendent of police has made cases at every meeting at the Benning race track except that of last autumn, and has brought them to the attention of the district attorney, and that he refrained from making arrests at the last autumn meeting because the district attorney asked to the Commissioners in charge of the police department that it was inadvisable to do so pending the decision of the Court of Appeals on the test case that had been made at the spring meeting."

CONFER ON MACHINISTS' PAY.

Committee on Navy Yard to Meet Assistant Secretary Newberry.

A committee composed of members of the Machinists' Association of the navy yard will hold a conference to-day with Assistant Secretary of the Navy Newberry, to discuss the increase in the wages of the machinists employed at the navy yard. Secretary Newberry recently approved and announced an increase in the wages in all the sixteen classes of men employed at the navy yard, but there has been some controversy over the amount of increase in the wages of the machinists.

E. L. Tucker, of the general executive board of the Machinists' Association, and James O'Connell, general treasurer of the association, yesterday called on Secretary Newberry and made arrangements for the conference, which will be held this morning at 11 o'clock.

CRIPPLE GIVEN HERO MEDAL

President Awards Life-savers' Trophy to Railroad Man.

Drew Little Girl from Track in Time and Was Injured While Saving Her.

President Roosevelt has awarded a railroad life-saving medal to Edward A. McGrath, of Milwaukee, a station agent of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railway Company, who, on August 28, 1907, saved the life of Emma Hummich, a six-year-old girl.

While McGrath and a number of other persons were standing on the station platform at Milwaukee, the crossing gates being closed for the passage of a train, little Miss Hummich attempted to cross the track in front of an approaching train. McGrath, who is a cripple, shouted to her to stand back, but she failed to heed his warning and was in imminent danger of being run down.

McGrath ran to the little girl's aid and at great risk to himself succeeded in lifting her from the track just as the train rushed by. Eyewitnesses of the affair, according to reports received in Washington, declare that it was a miracle either escaped death. McGrath was struck by the pilot beam of the engine, but escaped serious injury. The child was uninjured. After an investigation of the circumstances connected with the case the Interstate Commerce Commission, acting under a law passed by Congress, recommended that McGrath be awarded a medal of honor.

REAL ESTATE VALUES FIXED.

Equalization Board to Meet on Monday to Hear Objections.

The triennial assessment of real estate was completed yesterday by the three assistant assessors of the District, who will make their report to Assessor Griffin, as directed by law, in a few days. As there is always a large number of persons who object to the reassessment the law provides for a board of equalization and review to hear the complaints of dissatisfied persons.

If these show good cause why the reassessment is not justified, the board makes a readjustment. This board will meet in room 2, District Building, Monday to hear objections and complaints.

The law providing for the establishment of this board also provides that it complete its labors by the first Monday of June, 1908. As it is necessary that the board hear all the protests and that the completed assessment be returned to the office of the assessor by July 1, 1908, it has only a month in which to hear all the cases, which never amount to less than three or four thousand.

This is practically impossible, and a bill will be introduced in Congress at an early date, amending the law by providing that all appeals must hereafter be filed with the board of equalization and review on or before the first Monday of April, 1908, and every third year thereafter.

AMATEUR EDITORS MEET.

Elect Officers and Decide to Convene Here Next Year.

The third annual convention of the Atlantic Coast Amateur Press Association ended here yesterday after the election of officers and the selection of this city for the next convention on New Year's Day, 1908.

The association is composed of amateur editors and writers living in the Eastern section of the country. The officers elected were as follows:

President, J. W. Smith, Hudson Heights, N. J.; vice president, C. N. Russell, Philadelphia; secretary, J. T. McCaffrey, Baltimore; treasurer, Pearl K. Merritt, Washington, D. C.; official editor, V. Haggerty, Bridgeport, Conn.; historian, E. H. Cole, Somerville, Mass.; laureate recorder, H. B. Pratt, Brooklyn, N. Y.; directors, Mrs. E. B. Swift, New York City; J. Ray Spink, Philadelphia, and George J. Houtain, Brooklyn, N. Y.

FUNERAL OF MR. SCHOFIELD.

Died of Pneumonia Contracted While Making Calls with Fluence.

The funeral of Charles E. Schofield, who died New Year's Eve from an attack of pneumonia which he contracted on Christmas Day while making calls with his fiancée, was held from the residence of his sister, Mrs. George E. Howard, 2106 N street northwest, yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. Dr. W. C. Alexander, pastor of West Street Presbyterian Church, of which the deceased was a member, conducted the services. Messrs. Harry Pimper, Lawrence Poore, Lucien Swindells, Richard Waddy, Spencer Pyles, and Edward Hanckey acted as pallbearers. Interment was in Rock Creek Cemetery.

Mr. Schofield died less than a month before the date set for his marriage with Miss Ethel Magruder, who is, naturally, prostrated. The couple were widely known in Georgetown.

ALLISON NAILOR.

His life was like a sunny ray That warmed the precincts of the day And made the heart feel light and gay With sweet celestial melody away.

In street and field, in vale and wood, He lived for human brotherhood; And ever worked the best he could, For love and truth he understood.

The poor and weak he helped along As gentle as a summer song, And never strayed to fear or wrong, But ever brave and kind and strong.

Grand Masonry he loved with zest, And from the East unto the West He ever did his level best To entertain each Brother's guest.

RAPS GOMPERS AGAIN

Speaker's Secretary Shows His Statements Wrong.

BUSBEY WRITES TO LEADER

Replies to Attack Upon Mr. Cannon's Character and Offers to Prove that Labor President Went Wide of the Truth in Editorial Printed in Labor Organization's Official Organ.

Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, apparently does not read the newspapers very carefully, at least this is indicated by the fact that L. White Busbey, secretary to the Speaker of the House of Representatives, has caught the labor leader napping, and as a result has added one more document to the archives of the Cannon-Gompers fight, in which Mr. Gompers is apparently trying to end the Speaker's political career by arraying the labor vote against him. So far he has made little if any impression on the Speaker's following, but the Speaker is not the man to keep quiet when he is attacked. He fights back, and with effect.

Yesterday Mr. Busbey, with the approval of Mr. Cannon, sent the following letter to the president of the Federation of Labor:

"Dear Sir: In your editorial on 'Speaker Cannon. Let us Forget' in the January number of the American Federationist, you make some statements as facts that are not in harmony with your expression of opinion that 'it is impossible for the politician of the Cannon stripe to conceive that there are some, yes, a large and constantly growing number of men, who, true to a principle, true to a cause, true to their fellows, would scorn to stoop to a dishonest or dishonorable act, or any act but which would redound to the interest and progress of the workers.'"

"I assume that you place yourself in this large and growing class that would scorn to do a dishonest or dishonorable act, and that you would not do what you charge the Speaker with attempting to do. You close your article with this sentence: 'These facts are recorded, "Uncle Joe," lest we forget.'"

"And yet it is only twenty days since the interview between Speaker Cannon and the plate printers' committee took place, and the local papers printed a full account of that meeting, including the resolutions presented and a full transcript of the Speaker's remarks. Let me respectfully call your attention to those press reports, and to the incident recorded."

Quotes the Real Facts.

"On Thursday, Dec. 5, Mr. Charles T. Smith, editor of the Plate Printer, called at the Speaker's room and requested that an opportunity be given for the executive committee of Local No. 2, of the International Steel Copper Plate Printers' Union to call and pay their respects and thank him for the work he had done to benefit the craft. Mr. Smith said that this committee would prefer to call on Saturday afternoon about 2 o'clock, and without consulting Mr. Cannon, I made an engagement for him for that hour and date. At 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon, the committee from the plate printers called on Mr. Cannon, and the president of the union, Mr. William D. Leisler, presented a series of resolutions. These resolutions, these resolutions recited that Mr. Cannon's success in having the sundry civil appropriation bill amended in 1906, to provide that a certain class of revenue stamps should be printed from engraved plates, and also in the preceding year, to provide that United States currency notes and bonds should be similarly made, as well as his having, in February, 1904, at the request of the plate printers' executive board, moved the adoption of an amendment to the deficiency appropriation bill, then pending in the House, through which the plate printers were relieved from a gross and oppressive taxation upon their earnings, had not only resulted in a high standard of printing for the government securities, but had also given to the plate printers' craft a uniform and unbroken prosperity during nearly a decade."

Expressed Their Confidence.

"The resolutions expressed the gratitude of the plate printers for this interest in and efforts in behalf of this legislation, and expressed their confidence in the author of those amendments. The resolutions were signed by William D. Leisler, president; George P. Foster, chairman; R. L. Grace, Jeremiah P. Murphy, Samuel F. McCully, W. D. Clark, and Charles T. Smith, composing the executive committee of the plate printers' union. I ask you to note that in these resolutions the committee expressed their thanks to Mr. Cannon for past efforts or assistance in securing legislation beneficial to labor. There was not a line or word in the resolutions, or in the talk, or in the remarks of the committee presenting them, which expressed any hope or desire on the part of the plate printers that Mr. Cannon should make any promise or do anything for them in the future."

"In your 'statement of facts' in the American Federationist for January, however, you state 'A committee of plate printers of Washington called upon Speaker Cannon on December 7, 1907, and asked his support of a bill for a new building in which the 1,500 employees, men and women, white and colored, of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, might have the opportunity of performing their work resulting therefrom, as is the case in the building now occupied by them.'"

"It was the occasion of the plate printers' appeal for a place to work where they would be relieved from the present health and life destroying atmosphere, that Hon. Joseph G. Cannon must needs deliver a lecture to them not to be dictated to by 'that man Gompers,' &c., &c. Would it be interesting to Hon. Joseph G. Cannon to know that, recognizing the awful fetid atmosphere in which the men and women in the bureau were working for the government, that 'that man Gompers,' that 'dictator Gompers,' advised the committee to call on him (Cannon) and try an appeal to his better nature, that perhaps he might be moved to take some action by which so large a number of hard working, deserving government employees might be saved from having their health impaired and their lives destroyed?

"If, as you say, Mr. Gompers suggested that call and an appeal to the more humane side of Mr. Cannon, the committee forgot that part of the programme. But I think they were of that class which you described as men who would not stoop to a dishonorable act, and if they had come at the suggestion of President Gompers, they would have carried out his instructions and delivered his appeal. I, therefore, think that your recollection is at fault, and that you did forget."

"I have no comment to make on the Speaker's remarks to the plate printers. They speak for themselves, and if you will read the stenographic report I think you will agree that your recollection of what he said is as wide of the truth as was your report as to who inspired the call of the committee, and the purpose of their call. May I also suggest that you keep a scrap book—lest we forget."

Very respectfully,
"L. WHITE BUSBEY,
"Secretary to the Speaker."

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR NOTES

Extension Courses Planned for Study of Missions.

Illustrated Musical Lecture, Arranged for Monday, January 6, by Mr. Percy S. Foster.

In co-operation with the various interdenominational missionary movements the Columbian College (George Washington University) announces four university extension courses in the study of Christian missions, to be conducted by members of the faculty. Each course will occupy an hour each week for eight weeks. The subjects and teachers for these courses will be:

1. "Aliens or Americans," Prof. Day.
2. "The challenge of the city," Prof. Veditz.
3. "Gloria Christi: Outline study of missions and social progress," Miss Ellis.
4. "The uplift of China," Prof. Wilbur.

The desirability of such study is appreciated by those who see the strategic importance of spiritual education controlling ecological, economic, and political relations, and by those who accept, simply, the commission to "teach all nations."

A social and watch-night service was held at Ninth Street Christian Church last Tuesday night under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society.

The watch-night service began at 11 and was led by Miss Virginia Raymond in an impressive manner. Silent prayer began at 11:35 and the service concluded by the audience singing "Nearer, My God, to Thee."

The union meeting, Monday, January 6, will be an exceptional one. Mr. Percy S. Foster will give an illustrated musical lecture, which will be instructive as well as intensely interesting. Members of music committees and officers are urged to be present. Endeavorers and friends are most cordially invited to be present. It is desired that Endeavor Hymnals be brought.

Dean Wilbur, of Georgetown University, will be present, and speak of the mission study extension courses.

Miss Clara C. Parkinson, superintendent of the missionary department, is gradually recovering from a severe illness.

N. F. McAllister, assistant secretary, is out of the city for a vacation.

A board meeting was held Friday evening, January 3.
